Please modify the emergency task order for the Gold King Mine Spill and add an additional $300,000. An IGCE is being prepared but due to the emergency nature of the response, it is changing rapidly.

EPA has been responding to the release of approximately 3 million gallons of mine waste water to the Animas River. This has impacted the river which is a drinking water source for the people of Farmington, New Mexico. The contractor has been tasked with providing water to livestock and commercial vegetable plots. The contractor is being tasked to provide other support services such as supplying hay to the cattle.
